in the name

Graves is a region in the Left Bank of Bordeaux, France which produces the best Sauvignon/Sémillon blends in the world. We 'robbed' this style and made it our own here in BC. It also translates to gravel which our Lost Horn Vineyard is riddled with.

57% Sauv. Blanc (Naramata)/43% Sémillon (OK Falls). Cool fermented and aged in stainless steel before an early bottling to capture as much zip in every sip as possible. Look for a mouth-watering citrus backbone, with refreshing notes of pine, cut grass, and sweet herbs.

Architecture from us.
A little piece of our château.

The front gate at La Mission Haut-Brion, in La Graves (one of the most famous Sauv/Sems in the world). Jesse (GM) took this photo when they wouldn't let him in 2003.

Lost Horn Vineyard, Okanagan Falls - the soil that makes the Okanagan Falls such a perfect spot to grow mineral laden wines.

Honey Bee/comb
- if this ages, it might taste like honey comb like the great white Bordeaux's. But it likely won't because we will drink it all by July.

Some snow on a stainless steel tank which we used to capture maximum crispness and tension.
